Narrative Summary:

Bell Helicopter Textron, Inc., Grand Prairie, TX During March 31 through April 1, 1998, multi-media inspection, EPA found Clean Air Act (CAA) violations of the National Emission Standards for Chromium Electroplating and Anodizing Tanks, and for Halogenated Solvent Cleaning. There were also violations of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) identified during the inspection concerning manifests. Specifically, Bell Helicopter Textron, Inc., ("Bell") exceeded the emission standard for its chromium anodizing tank and had reporting and record keeping violations associated with the chromium anodizing tank. In addition, Bell had reporting violations associated with eight batch vapor cleaning machines. A Consent Agreement Final Order for the CAA and RCRA violations was entered on September 29, 1999, which settles this matter for a civil penalty of $175,000 ($166,250 for CAA violations and $8,750 for RCRA violations). The penalty was paid on October 18, 1999.
